BIG AUTOS FOR DAYTONA RACES

100-Horse Power Cars Will be Pled at the Daytona-Ormond Race Meet This Season.

E. L. de Camp, of Utica, N. Y., will enter the automobile racing field at the Daytona-Ormond meet, and will make his bid for honors with a 120-horse power car made in Chicago. Harry Mundy, of Utica, is to drive the new wonder, for such it is said to be. In all probability Mr. de Camp will also enter for the James Gordon Bennett cup team with his new racer.

Another new face in the automobile field is A. C. Hunter, of Caldwell, N. J., a young man whose stripped touring car was seen in the Eagle Rock climb, with Heyser driving.

E. M. Steck, of Philadelphia, has also become a member of the racing colony. He purchased lately the Red Rover, a 190 horse-power car, and he has also purchased a winter home in Daytona, where speed is unrestricted.

Many American importers are now in Paris for the automobile salon, and will bring back with them every driver of note not otherwise engaged. Pansel is now in this country, and his 90 horse-power car will be here within ten days.

This driver made the fastest lap in the James Gordon Bennett race last summer, and is credited with being a man of iron nerve. His assistant with the big car will be George Cook, a racing man of the days of Fred Royce and other prominent New Jersey amateurs.

Probably half a score of the more prominent drivers will go to Daytona a week or two ahead of the meet.

TO BREAK RECORD

The Pope Motor Car Company has completed what is asserted to be the highest power racing car ever built in this country. The car will be entered in the automobile record trials at the Daytona-Ormond beach in January. A. C. Webb, who drove the 60 horse-power Pope Toledo racer in the Vanderbilt cup race, will pilot the new car.

The car is built with the intention of breaking the world's straight-away record of 0:39, made last year by Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., on the beach.

The six-cylinder engine develops something more than 90 horse-power. The cylinder dimensions are six by six inches. There is a direct drive and no transmission gear. The engine shaft is connected to the counter shaft by a bevel gear, and the rear wheels are driven by chains from the counter shaft. As geared at present, every time the engine completes a full revolution the driving wheels do likewise. The axles and steering knuckles are made of malleable steel. The radiator and bonnet are of the regular Pope-Toledo type. The car weighs less than 2,200 pounds, the limit for heavy racing machines.

THE "CHEROKEE" GOES DOWN

The Trim Built Daytona Craft Strikes A Snag in the Indian River and Sinks in Six Feet of Water.

The 40-foot cabin launch Cherokee owned by Captains Heath and Dickinson, of Daytona, which was carrying a party of prominent State officials and officers of the Florida Coast Line and Transportation Company on a tour of inspection of the work in progress on the canals, lies on the bottom of the Indian River, just north of Fort Pierce, as a result of striking a snag of the old Government beacon.

The party aboard the Cherokee were Governor-elect N. B. Broward, Senator W. A. MacWilliams, Representative Harry Floyd, of St. Johns County, J. Mullock Barrs, Guy Metcalf, Geo. F. Miles, president of the Florida Coast Line Canal and Transportation Company, Geo. G. Gleason, general manager of the same company, and Alex Merrill of the Merrill-Stevens Engineering Co. of Jacksonville, the owners, Captains Heath and Dickinson of Daytona, and Mate Martin.

The launch was chartered for a trip through all the canals of the company leaving Smith's creek above Daytona, Saturday morning, where the dredge South Carolina is at work cutting the canal, which connects Smith's creek with the Matanzas River, and is the last link which will make a continuous inland waterway from St. Augustine to near Key West.

The trip Saturday and Sunday night was interesting, but uneventful, and at daylight Sunday morning they were going through the southern end of the picturesque Indian River narrows, and on down Indian River, admiring the beauties of the scenery. All of the party were in the spacious cabin or on deck, enjoying the early morning sail, except Captain Dickinson, who had just been relieved of the night watch, and had retired. At 9 o'clock, when one mile north of Fort Pierce, the Cherokee suddenly struck a snag, listed heavily to starboard, and immediately struck again this time on the listed side, knocking a hole four inches by fifteen in her bottom, just in front of midship, and near the keel on the starboard side.

The launch commenced to fill rapidly, and Captain Heath headed her for the shore, but she sank in six feet of water in less than five minutes, lying with only her cabin out of the water, directly in front of Captain Joe Saunderson's boatyard. Her calls for assistance were quickly answered by a half score of launches, which went to the relief of the party and took them to the Fort Pierce Hotel.
